The Show:

Secretary Lorrie Keating Heinemann, WI Dept. of Financial Institutions was in the house today to tell us the State of Wisconsin has no budget and it's the Republican Assembly leaders fault.

The City of Janesville will lose $91,000.00 while the school district of Janesville will lose $785,000.00, Child care and tuition expenses will not be deductible and property taxes will increase and it's all the republican's fault.

Well, that's not quite the way the secretary put it, but she is an appointee of our Democratic Governor, so she sure wasn't pointing fingers at the Democrats.

During the question and answer session that followed Secretary Meinemann's remarks, Ed Pulliam asked a question regarding the Governor's threat of a partial shutdown of state government's non-essential services. Ed asked if the governor could think of any more non essential service than our do-nothing state legislature. He suggested that withholding lawmaker's pay until they worked out a budget would be an ideal first step.

By the way, since the legislature finally passed a budget on Friday, Ed is taking full credit for getting it done.
